Acorn Park - Weekly Roundup

Good afternoon everyone,
And here we are in July! How did that happen?!

We had another fabulous week here at Acorn Park in the summer sun. Thank you to all of you that are sending your children in with hats and sun cream – it's so reassuring that students are protected from the sun.

The children have been having lots of fun on and offsite this week:
Kirby and Seuss had a class meet up to socialise and paint objects that make them happy. They all showed excellent sharing skills and enjoyed meeting up with peers from another class 😊

We've had children in our wonderful immersion room (a room full of projectors and an interactive surface) so they can learn and play games.

Some of our Shakespeare students have also been in Wales all week having the most wonderful residential adventure! Those that didn't go have been doing some lovely activities 'back at base' here.

Have you heard about Gustave recently? Gustave the Giraffe (that the students here so proudly decorated) is part of the GoGo Safari around Norwich. He is stood with his friends in Chantry Place in Norwich (upstairs in the food court) if anyone wants to visit him. Here is the link to the GoGo safari - GoGoSafari

I know I'm like a broken record with Acorn Fest attendance... But please complete this link if you haven't already – <https://forms.office.com/e/24nLnCX6Lz>
If you would like to talk to us about this instead of filling in a form online, please pick up the phone and give us a call. (Thank-you to everyone that has already completed the form, there are lots of you coming this year 😊)

The attendance is looking much better, barely any reds this week!! Keep up the good work.

Student stars:

Care:

Rylee B for being so caring to staff and his environment by tidying up the classroom and helping Paula in the art room

Fletcher and Dixon class all played so nicely as a group on their trip to Roarr Dinosaur Adventure this week despite how hot it was they all coped very well and had a great day.

Strive:

Tobi L for staying late to practice his lines for the play AND for always ensuring the Café operates smoothly by doing whatever is necessary to serve the customers – always with good humour and a smile.

Grow:

Teddy B for learning how to share toys and resources with his friends in class.

Thrive:

Charlie S for always showing kindness to visitors, it's a genuine pleasure to pop by the class. He is always interested in his friends and their wellbeing.

Hoping you all have a lovely weekend

Adam 😊
